House of Representatives

EXPLANATORY MATERIAL STATEMENT SUBMITTED BY MR. SMITH OF WASHINGTON, CHAIR OF THE HOUSE COMMITTEE ON ARMED SERVICES, ON H. RES. 1512, JAMES M. INHOFE NATIONAL DEFENSE AUTHORIZATION ACT FOR FISCAL YEAR 2023

The following consists of the explanatory material to accompany the James M. Inhofe National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2023.

Section 5 of the Act specifies that this explanatory statement shall have the same effect with respect to the implementation of this legislation as if it were a joint explanatory statement of a committee of conference.

In this joint explanatory statement, the provisions of H.R. 7900, the House-passed version of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2023, are generally referred to as “the House bill”. The provisions of Senate amendment No. 5499, as modified, to H.R. 7900, are generally referred to as “the Senate amendment”. The final form of the agreements reached during negotiations between the House and the Senate are referred to as “the agreement”.

Disclosure of earmarks and congressionally directed spending items

Although not required by the Rules of the House of Representatives, the explanatory statement includes a table that discloses congressional earmarks as defined in paragraph (e) of clause 9 of rule XXI of the Rules of the House of Representatives that are contained in the bill at the request of a Member of the House of Representatives. Neither the bill nor the explanatory statement contain any limited tax benefits or limited tariff benefits as defined in paragraphs (f) or (g) of clause 9 of rule XXI.

Summary of discretionary authorizations and budget authority implication

The budget request for national defense discretionary programs within the jurisdiction of the Committees on Armed Services of the Senate and the House of Representatives for fiscal year 2023 was $802.4 billion. Of this amount, $772.5 billion was requested for Department of Defense programs, $29.5 billion was requested for national security programs in the Department of Energy and the Defense Nuclear Facilities Safety Board, and $378 million for defense-related activities.

The agreement would authorize $847.3 billion in fiscal year 2023, including $816.7 billion for Department of Defense programs, $30.3 billion for national security programs in the Department of Energy and the Defense Nuclear Facilities Safety Board, and $378 million for defense-related activities.

The two tables preceding the detailed program adjustments in division D of the accompanying joint explanatory statement summarize the discretionary authorizations in the agreement and the equivalent budget authority levels for fiscal year 2023 defense programs.

Sec. 4—Budgetary effects of this Act

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1002) that would state the budgetary effects of this Act for the purpose of complying with the Statutory Pay-As-You-Go Act of 2010 (Public Law 111-139).

Subtitle B—Army Programs

Sec. 111—Limitations on production of Extended Range Cannon Artillery howitzers

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 111) that would require the post-prototype production strategy for Extended Range Cannon Artillery howitzers to be based on a full and open competitive approach that considers the comparative cost and value of a new-build versus Paladin-modification production approach. The provision would require the Secretary of the Army to certify compliance of the acquisition strategy and provide a briefing to the congressional defense committees prior to issuing Request for Proposals for post-prototype procurement.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The agreement includes the Senate provision with a clarifying amendment.

Subtitle C—Navy Programs

Sec. 121—Requirements relating to EA-18G aircraft of the Navy

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 111) that would require the Secretary of the Navy to maintain a minimum quantity of EA-18G aircraft capabilities to meet certain requirements.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 129) that would require the Secretary of the Navy to retain all EA-18G aircraft, transfer EA-18G aircraft in expeditionary squadrons to the Navy Reserve, and establish joint service expeditionary, land-based electronic attack squadrons with the Air National Guard or Air Force Reserves.

The agreement includes the Senate provision with an amendment that would require the Secretary of the Navy to maintain the EA-18G fleet through fiscal year 2027, and, jointly with the Secretary of the Air Force, submit a report within 180 days of enactment of this Act on a strategy and execution plan to continuously and effectively meet airborne electronic attack training and combat employment requirements of the joint force. The strategy and execution plan shall, at a minimum, include the establishment or continuation of one or more joint service expeditionary, land-based electronic attack squadrons to equal or exceed the capacity and capability of such squadrons at currently existing basing locations. The plan should comprise integration and utilization of both reserve and active-duty component forces and resources within both military departments.

Sec. 122—Navy shipbuilding workforce development special incentive

We believe that expanded incentives and investments in workforce development, including through leveraging existing programs established by local workforce development boards, will have the potential to increase capacity, effectiveness, and efficiency across all Navy new construction shipyards. These incentives and investments should focus not only on recruiting and training new workers, but also on retaining the existing workforce as a means to grow all experience-levels across these shipyards.

Sec. 123—Extension of prohibition on availability of funds for Navy port waterborne security barriers

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 127) that would extend the prohibition on availability of funds for purchasing Navy waterborne security barriers.

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 128) that would prohibit the Secretary of the Navy from taking any action that would prevent the Navy from maintaining the fleet of E-6B aircraft in the configuration and capability in effect as of the date of the enactment of this Act, until the date on which the Chair of the Joint Requirements Oversight Council certifies in writing to the congressional defense committees that the replacement capability for the E-6B would be fielded at the same time or before the retirement of the E-6B, and would result in equal or greater capability available to the commanders of the combatant commands.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The agreement includes the Senate provision with an amendment that would add an exception.

Sec. 125—Multiyear procurement authority for Arleigh Burke class destroyers

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 112) that would provide multiyear procurement authority for up to 15 Flight III Arleigh Burke class destroyers. The House bill also contained a provision (sec. 113) that would authorize the procurement of an additional Arleigh Burke class destroyer and the use of incremental funding for such contract.

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 122) that would also provide multiyear procurement authority for up to 15 Flight III Arleigh Burke class destroyers.

The agreement includes the Senate provision with an amendment that would: (1) Prevent the Secretary of the Navy from modifying a contract if the modification would increase the target price of the destroyer by more than 10 percent above the target price; and (2) Require the Secretary of the Navy to ensure that one or more of the contracts includes pre-priced option ships, such that the sum of the base quantity of ships plus the pre-priced options ships is equal to 15 destroyers.

We believe that the DDG Flight III destroyer is the most capable large surface combatant in the worldwide inventory of the Department of Defense, recognize that the Department plans to retire 18 large surface combatants over the next 5 years and yet procure only 9 new large surface combatants during the same period, and urge the Department to maximize savings and provide stability to the large surface combatant industrial base through the use of multiyear procurement contracts for the maximum number of ships authorized by this provision.

Sec. 126—Procurement authority for Ship-to-Shore Connector program

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 114) that would authorize the Secretary of the Navy to enter into one or more contracts for up to 25 Ship-to-Shore Connector craft and associated equipment.

Sec. 130—Contracts for design and construction of the DDG(X) destroyer program

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 121) that would prescribe certain aspects of the next large surface combatant, the DDG(X) destroyer program, and encourage the Secretary of the Navy to implement an acquisition strategy for the DDG(X) based on a collaborative design, development, and production approach between the Government and industry.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The agreement includes the Senate provision with an amendment that would modify the language to: (1) Make such prescribed aspects contingent on certain actions by the milestone decision authority; (2) Expand the DDG(X) collaborative effort during the design and development phase of the program to include a broader range of contractors; and (3) Limit the allocation for ship construction to one vessel per yard rather than up to two vessels per yard.

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 125) that would require the Secretary of the Navy to ensure FFG-62 class vessels are capable of carrying and employing Tomahawk cruise missiles before accepting delivery of the vessels.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The agreement includes the Senate provision with an amendment that would modify the requirement to exempt the first vessel in the FFG-62 class, instead requiring the integration of both the Tomahawk and the SM-6 on the second and subsequent vessels in the class prior to each vessel's first deployment.

Sec. 132—Report on advance procurement for CVN-82 and CVN-83

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 119) that would require the Secretary of the Navy to provide to the congressional defense committees by February 1, 2023, a report on the plan of the Navy for advance procurement for the aircraft carriers designated CVN-82 and CVN-83.

The agreement includes the House provision with an amendment that would adjust the deadline for the submission of the required report to March 1, 2023.

We would view a combined report, incorporating all required elements of both the House provision, as amended, and the Senate report and provided to the congressional defense committees not later than March 1, 2023, as satisfying the requirements of both this Act and the Senate report.

Sec. 133—Quarterly briefings on the CH-53K King Stallion helicopter program

Sec. 142—Inventory and other requirements relating to air refueling tanker aircraft

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 122) that set an air refueling minimum inventory of 466 tanker aircraft for fiscal year 2023 and prevent the Air Force from moving KC-135 aircraft from Primary Mission Aircraft Inventory to Backup Aircraft Inventory in the Air Force Guard and Reserve. The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 143) that would prevent the Air Force from retiring any F-22 aircraft until that Air Force had produced: (1) A detailed plan showing that the combat capability at operational units would not be degraded if the Air Force were to retire all F-22 Block 20 aircraft; and (2) A report on how the Secretary intends to avoid diminishing the combat effectiveness of F-22 aircraft; exacerbating F-22 availability concerns, and complicating F-22 squadron maintenance issues.

The agreement includes the House provision (sec. 123) with an amendment that would: (1) Delete the requirements to upgrade all Block 20 aircraft; (2) Add a requirement that the Secretary of the Air Force submit a report on a realistic strategy and execution plan to conduct formal training for F-22 aircrews that will ensure combat capability, capacity, and availability at all F-22 operational units is not degraded; and (3) Require the Comptroller General of the United States to provide a briefing and a report to the congressional defense committees that validates and assesses data and information provided to the Comptroller General, by the Secretary of the Air Force and the original equipment manufacturer of the F-22, on the proposed cost estimates and schedules of milestones, events and activities required to upgrade Block 20 F-22 aircraft to a capability configuration comparable to or exceeding the existing or planned configuration of Block 30/35 F-22 aircraft.

TITLE II—RESEARCH, DEVELOPMENT, TEST, AND EVALUATION BUDGET ITEMS

Future Air Force Integrated Technology Demos

In section 4201 of division D of the House bill, the Future Air Force Integrated Technology Demos line (Research, Development, Test, and Evaluation Air Force, line 16) contained a decrease of $15.0 million for insufficient justification.

In section 4201 of division D of the Senate amendment, the Future Air Force Integrated Technology Demos line (Research, Development, Test, and Evaluation Air Force, line 16) contained a decrease of $50.0 million for program reduction.

The agreement includes a reduction in the Future Air Force Integrated Technology Demos line by $50.0 million.

We note that several U.S. Air Force programs are funded under this line, including the three Air Force Vanguard programs: Golden Horde, Skyborg, and the Navigation Technology Satellite-3 (NTS-3) program. There remains concern about how the Air Force is planning, budgeting, and executing their Vanguard Programs, and therefore, the Air Force is directed to submit with their Fiscal Year 2024 budget request detailed funding information, including future year funding details and plans, for these programs. We are also concerned that these large efforts have been funded out of a generally flat top-line budget for science and technology funds within the Air Force, effectively reducing other science and technology efforts at the expense of the Vanguard programs. Additionally, consistent with previously expressed views of the Committees on Armed Services of the Senate and the House of Representatives, the U.S. Air Force is encouraged to avoid applying this general reduction to programs that are approaching critical milestones, such as the NTS-3 program.

The agreement does not include this provision.

We note and support the Army's technology research and development efforts oriented on next generation systems based on open architectures and either control of intellectual property or technical data rights. This is particularly apparent in the Army's interest in artificial intelligence, machine learning, and operator machine interfaces for robotic or optionally manned systems. We are aware of the Army's efforts and progress over the years with common controllers or interfaces and common operating software for tactical robotic technologies for which the operator and machine interfaces are critically important. We are also aware that there is significant commercial interest in operator machine interfaces for a variety of technologies. We are interested to learn if there are military application opportunities for technical improvement and cost savings related to leveraging existing commercial investment and capability in operator machine interface technology.

Accordingly, we direct the Assistant Secretary of the Army for Acquisition, Logistics, and Technology to submit a report not later than April 30, 2023, to the congressional defense committees on the results of a market survey to identify commercially avail-

The agreement does not include this provision.

We recognize the importance of global positioning system (GPS) Radio Occultation as a mature and emerging commercial form of data for military operations for environmental sensing and the forecasting of weather. We further applaud the transition of Radio Occultation from an emerging research and development field to one that can be viewed as a commercially, operationally, and scientifically viable technology. Given the maturity of this technology and its commercial viability to purchase data from existing satellite platforms, we encourage the Department of the Air Force to budget for the future year's acquisition of such data through Operations and Maintenance accounts on a predictable basis so it can be widely used across the entire Department of Defense.

Pilot program on use of digital twin technologies in the Armed Forces

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 229B) that would require the Secretary of Defense to carry out a pilot program to accelerate the development of advanced technology for national security by creating incentives for trusted private capital in domestic small businesses or nontraditional businesses that are developing technology that the Secretary considers necessary to support the modernization of the Department of Defense and national security priorities.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 861).

The agreement does not include these provisions.

We recognize that the Department is making strides in engaging academia and industry to develop, mature, and deploy critical emerging technologies to support Department of Defense warfighters. While many of the funding tools necessary to make the innovation ecosystem work effectively for both the Department and the private sector exist, coordination and synchronization to effectively leverage these mechanisms is still a challenge. However, state-directed capital investment by China into defense-relevant technologies continues to dwarf similar capital flows by U.S. companies. Additional mechanisms to encourage private capital investment in the defense ecosystem are necessary, particularly given the desire of U.S. capital investors to engage in this sector. The Committees on Armed Services of the Senate and the House of Representatives have been committed to finding innovative ways to involve private capital at the Department to accelerate the delivery of capability to the warfighter at lower cost, including through versions of these provisions.

However, efforts to leverage private capital in the defense ecosystem implicate Congressional Budget Office (CBO) rules with regard to third-party financing of Federal projects. While we believe that versions of these provisions create no cost or liability for the U.S. government, we are unable to include them in the agreement due to CBO's determination that these technologies would be "under a significant degree of federal control" and thus increase direct spending.

We look forward to continued discussion with all stakeholders of further attempts to leverage private capital for national security purposes.

Funding for development of measures to prevent infections caused by severe fractures

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 229C) that would authorize $5.0 million to be used for the development of measures to prevent infections caused by severe fractures.

The agreement does not include this provision.

We remain concerned about the adequacy of current and forecast levels of investment into Department of Defense test and evaluation resources, including personnel, infrastructure, and equipment, and in particular with regards to software-intensive, multi-domain, and continuously developed capabilities. We believe the test and evaluation enterprise to be fundamental to the Department's ability to deliver needed capability to the joint force, and note that current planning constructs may not be adequate to meet the dynamic needs of future capabilities. We encourage robust support for test and evaluation (T&E) efforts in future budget submissions, and direct the Test Resource Management Center to use the biennial Strategic Plan for Department of Defense T&E resources to provide a narrative link between the long-term requirements and the shorter-term resource allocations needed to achieve a desired future state for the T&E enterprise.

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 238) that would require the Secretary of Defense to submit reports on the risk information on the Department of Defense's research portfolio.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The agreement does not include this provision.

We encourage the Department to take on more measured risk in its research and development portfolio. Specifically, we note that the Department does not adhere to the best practice of grouping research and development efforts into either incremental or disruptive efforts. Absent adoption and implementation of this practice, the Department lacks visibility into the balance of risk versus payoff, especially with regard to the potential for its research and development efforts to provide the cutting edge technology needed to combat future and emerging threats.

By July 31, 2023, we direct the Under Secretary of Research and Engineering to provide the Committees on Armed Services of the Senate and the House of Representatives with a briefing on how the Department assesses, manages, and balances risk within its research and development portfolio. Specifically, the briefing shall include an update on how the Department is implementing recommendations in the report of the Government Accountability Office (GAO) entitled "Defense Science and Technology: Adopting Best Practices Can Improve Innovation Investments and Management" (GAO-17-499).

The agreement includes the House provision with an amendment that is consistent with previous Congressional intent that military service academy graduates who meet commissioning standards serve at least 2 years of their active duty service obligation prior to pursuing a career as a professional athlete.

The National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2018 (Public Law 115-91) and the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2020 (Public Law 116-92) both established the principle that service academy graduates must serve for 2 years on Active Duty before affiliating with the reserves to pursue employment as a professional athlete. The contorted Department of Defense policy governing academy graduates and professional sports deliberately circumvents these recent laws. Service academy appointments are a zero sum game. Every appointment that goes to a graduate who does not complete his or her Active Duty service obligation to pursue professional athletics, could have been awarded to many other qualified young people who would have happily served their country on Active Duty. We hope that the Department will finally adhere to this latest reiteration of congressional intent.

We received a briefing from the Department of Defense (DOD) on sleep apnea waivers for military accessions in response to a report requirement in the William M. (Mac) Thornberry National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2021 (Public Law 116-283).

Over a 5-year period (2014–2018), the DOD reviewed the records of more than a million recruit applicants, and only 48 individuals were disqualified from service for a sleep-related breathing disorder during that period. Moreover, 21 of these 48 individuals requested a medical accession waiver, with nine applicants' waivers approved, and each of them were accessed into a military service. These data do not suggest a need to conduct a pilot program to screen for OSA in military recruits or officer accession candidates. Additionally, we note that the American Academy of Sleep Medicine's clinical practice guidelines recommend polysomnography or home sleep apnea testing for the diagnosis of OSA only in adults presenting with signs and symptoms indicating moderate to severe disease.

Pilot program to improve military readiness through nutrition and wellness initiatives

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 790) that would require the Secretary of Defense, in consultation with the Secretaries of the military departments, to carry out a pilot program to improve military readiness through nutrition and wellness initiatives.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The agreement does not include this provision.

We acknowledge the importance of programs to improve nutrition and to promote wellness in the military services. Good health and physical fitness are key components of military readiness. The military services employ various programs to promote wellness such as sleep education, weight management and metabolic testing, exercise testing and exercise prescription, and stress management and biofeedback. They also provide nutrition fitness programs. One such program, the "Go for Green Initiative" helps servicemembers find high-performance foods and drinks to boost fitness, strength, and health. It educates servicemembers and improves their food environment through menu coding, standardized food cards, food placement strategies, and promotion of green-coded, healthy food items.

Screening and registry of individuals with health conditions resulting from unsafe housing units

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 2816) that would require the Secretary of Defense to ensure that all military medical treatment facilities screen eligible individuals for medical conditions that result from residing in an unsafe housing unit and authorize the Secretary to establish procedures that would allow screened individuals to be included in a registry.

The House bill also contained a provision (sec. 2880) that would authorize the Secretary of Defense to ensure that all military medical treatment facilities screen eligible individuals for medical conditions that result from residing in an unsafe housing unit and to establish procedures that would allow screened individuals to be included in a registry.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The agreement does not include these provisions.

We direct the Secretaries of the military departments to provide a briefing to the Committees on Armed Services of the Senate and the House of Representatives, not later than 180 days after enactment of this Act, on how they monitor the health of servicemembers and their families who may have experienced unsafe housing conditions.

TITLE VIII—ACQUISITION POLICY, ACQUISITION MANAGEMENT, AND RELATED MATTERS

Subtitle A—Acquisition Policy and Management

Sec. 801—Writing award to encourage curiosity and persistence in overcoming obstacles in acquisition

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 801) that would authorize the President of the Defense Acquisition University to establish an award to recognize members of the acquisition workforce who use an iterative writing process to document a firsthand account of using independent judgment to overcome an obstacle the member faced working within the defense acquisition system.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The agreement includes the House provision with a modifying amendment.

Sec. 802—Task and delivery order contracting for architectural and engineering services

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 823) that would amend section 3406 of title 10, United States Code, to modify how the most highly qualified contractor is selected to perform architectural and engineering services.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The agreement includes the Senate provision with a technical amendment.

Sec. 803—Data requirements for commercial products for major weapon systems

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 802) that would amend section 3455 of title 10, United States Code, to grant the Department of Defense (DOD) authority to obtain data to support the commercial product determination in certain circumstances.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 822).

The agreement includes the Senate provision with a modifying amendment.

We recognize that in order for contracting officers to make critical, foundational decisions related to contract actions for firm-fixed price sole source contracts, they need access to sufficient information to assess commercial item assertions and price reasonableness determinations. Senate Report 116-48 accompanying S. 1790, the National Defense Authorization Act for fiscal year 2020, required the Under Secretary of Defense for Acquisition and Sustainment to submit an annual report detailing instances where potential contractors have denied contracting officer requests for uncertified cost or pricing data to allow for the determination of fair and reasonable pricing of DOD acquisitions.

We have found these “data denials” reports to be illuminating, and believe the contents of these reports should be provided to the associated companies to ensure the leadership of such companies are: (1) Aware they are named in the report; (2) Have an opportunity to provide amplifying information to the Department related to such reported instances; and (3) Take timely corrective actions to address internal compliance procedures as appropriate. We believe such transparency can be instrumental to breaking down barriers of communication between industry and DOD officials at various levels of responsibility.

Therefore, we direct the Under Secretary of Defense for Acquisition and Sustainment to continue to submit this annual report to the congressional defense committees, and to make the appropriate portions of these reports available to the leadership of companies named in such reports to enable the aforementioned actions.

Sec. 804—Revision of authority for procedures to allow rapid acquisition and deployment of capabilities needed under specified high-priority circumstances

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 804) that would resolve inconsistencies and codify rapid acquisition authorities from section 806 of the Bob Stump National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2003 (Public Law 107-314) and section 804 of the Ike Skelton National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2011 (Public Law 111-383).

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The agreement includes the Senate provision with a modifying amendment.

Sec. 805—Treatment of certain clauses implementing Executive orders

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 821) that would amend section 3862 of title 10, United States Code, to clarify that the insertion of a clause implementing a new requirement mandated by an Executive Order into a Department of Defense contract vehicle would be considered a Government-directed change.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The agreement includes the Senate provision with a clarifying amendment.

Sec. 806—Life cycle management and product support

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 804) that would amend section 4324 of title 10, United States Code, to require the milestone decision authority to ensure the life cycle sustainment plan is approved by the product support manager, program manager, program executive officer, and an appropriate materiel, logistics, or fleet representative.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The agreement includes the House provision with a modifying amendment.

We note that traditionally program sustainment costs have not been adequately integrated into the up-front acquisition planning process, though there is data and analysis to demonstrate that focusing on sustainment early in the acquisition process can achieve significant programmatic cost savings. The Government Accountability Office (GAO) has reported extensively on programs that experience sustainment cost growth, such as shipbuilding programs and the F-35 program, and made recommendations on how programs can be operated and maintained affordably while meeting sustainment requirements. GAO has noted the importance of establishing connections between life-cycle costs, reliability requirements, and manpower estimates, as well as emphasized the importance of developing a business case analysis that addresses trade-offs and the associated implications to help programs assess the costs, benefits, and risks of key acquisition decisions.

We further note the Department of Defense (DOD) has issued a new policy on product support management (DOD Instruction 5000.91), which states, “[T]he DOD will conduct comprehensive product support and sustainment planning for defense systems across the program’s life cycle.” We therefore direct the Secretary of Defense to present a briefing to the Committees on Armed Services of the Senate and the House of Representatives, not later than March 1, 2023, on demonstrated or anticipated improvements resulting from implementation of the Department’s policy for optimizing product support planning and execution, including its ability to enable competition for life cycle product support, retain core logistics capability through organic depot maintenance, and make total force management risk assessments.

Sec. 807—Amendments to contractor employee protections from reprisal for disclosure of certain information

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 806) that would amend section 4701 of title 10, United States Code, and section 4712 of title 41, United States Code, by expanding the applicability to include qualified grantees, subgrantees, and personal services contractors and by adding the Pandemic Response Accountability Committee and the Integrity Committee of the Council of Inspectors General on Integrity and Efficiency to the list of entities to which a complaint can be disclosed.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The agreement includes the House provision with a modifying amendment.

We note that whistleblowers who lawfully disclose suspected wrongdoing to an authorized recipient are critical in protecting the government from fraud, waste, and abuse. However, whistleblowers risk retaliation for their disclosures, including possible demotion, reassignment, or termination. While a whistleblower is generally protected from retaliation when a disclosure is made to an Office of the Inspector General, among other authorized recipients, questions have emerged as to whether those protections apply to disclosures made to certain entities within the federal inspector general community. Specifically, the Council of the Inspectors General on Integrity and Efficiency (CIGIE) identified a concern that in relation to pandemic relief programs, disclosures to the Pandemic Response Accountability Committee (PRAC), Special Inspector General for Pandemic Recovery, and the CIGIE Integrity Committee may not be clearly covered by existing whistleblower protections.

Given this ambiguity, we direct the Government Accountability Office (GAO) to review the extent to which such protections apply to disclosures to the PRAC, Special Inspector General for Pandemic Recovery, and the CIGIE Integrity Committee. This review should also include information and analysis on the following: (1) The number and disposition of disclosures received by the PRAC, Special Inspector General for Pandemic Recovery, and the CIGIE Integrity Committee since March 2020; and (2) Whether any of the whistleblowers who made such disclosures have also claimed retaliation and the outcomes of those claims. We further direct the GAO to brief the Committees on Armed Services of the Senate and the House of Representatives on the results of its review not later than 270 days after the enactment of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2023.

Sec. 808—Use of fixed-price type contracts for certain major defense acquisition programs

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 862) that would amend section 818 of the John Warner National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2007 (Public Law 109-364) to limit the number of low-rate initial production lots on a single contract under certain circumstances, and to provide for waiver authority.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The agreement includes the House provision with a modifying amendment.

Sec. 809—Acquisition reporting system

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 805) that would amend section 4351 of title 10, United States Code, to remove the termination date for the selected acquisition reports.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 805).

The agreement includes the Senate provision with a clarifying amendment.

Subtitle B—Amendments to General Contracting Authorities, Procedures, and Limitations

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The agreement includes the Senate provision.

Sec. 812—Comptroller General assessment of acquisition programs and related efforts

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 812) that would extend the mandate in section 3072 of title 10, United States Code, “Comptroller General Assessment of Acquisition Programs and Initiatives” from 2023 to 2026, and would make additional changes to the scope of the assessments.

The agreement includes the Senate provision.

Sec. 814—Clarification to fixed-price incentive contract references

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 814) that would correct imprecise use of the term “fixed-price incentive fee” contract and replace it with “fixed-price incentive”, which is used at subpart 16.204 of the Federal Acquisition Regulation and throughout Department of Defense policy.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The agreement includes the House provision.

Sec. 815—Modification of reporting requirement in connection with requests for multiyear procurement authority for large defense acquisitions

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 806) that would streamline the process for submitting a request to carry out a defense acquisition program using multiyear contract authority.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The agreement includes the Senate provision.

Sec. 816—Modification of provision relating to determination of certain activities with unusually hazardous risks

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 815) that would elevate indemnification authority for certain military contracts from the Secretaries of the military departments to the Secretary of Defense.

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 873) that would extend an existing reporting requirement relating to unusually hazardous risk and contract indemnification.

The agreement includes the Senate provision.

We remain concerned with the lack of resolution regarding open indemnification requests related to the Conventional Prompt Strike program, other weapons programs, and the associated planned employment platforms. We note these delays could lead to significant delivery delays for both Navy and Army hypersonic weapons programs, the next block of Virginia-class submarines, and other programs.

We are also concerned with inconsistencies across the military services regarding implementation of section 2354 of title 10, United States Code, and Executive Order 10789. Further, we note that the report provided to the congressional defense committees by the Under Secretary of Defense for Acquisition and Sustainment did not fully respond to the requirements of section 1684 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2022 (Public Law 117–81), particularly regarding:

(1) A determination of the extent to which each Service Secretary is implementing section 2354 of title 10, United States Code, and Executive Order 10789 consistently; and

(2) Identification of discrepancies across the military departments with respect to such implementation.

Therefore, we direct the Secretary of Defense to provide a report to the congressional defense committees not later than February 28, 2023, that fully responds to these requirements.

Lastly, we direct the Director of Navy Strategic Systems Programs to brief the congressional defense committees not later than January 31, 2023, on the status of the indemnification request for the Conventional Prompt Strike program.

Sec. 817—Modification to prohibition on operation or procurement of foreign-made unmanned aircraft systems

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 819) that would amend section 848 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2020 (Public Law 116–92).

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 846).

The agreement includes the House provision with modifying amendments to clarify the prohibition on contracting with entities that use covered systems in the execution of Department of Defense contracts, provide for a 2-year implementation period, add other countries to the definition of covered foreign country, and to require the Secretary of Defense to issue policy implementing a due diligence review and an appeal process for contractors.

Sec. 818—Extension of pilot program to accelerate contracting and pricing processes

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 820) that would extend to January 2, 2024, a pilot program established in section 890 of the John S. McCain National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2019 (Public Law 115–232) and amended by section 825 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2020 (Public Law 116–92).

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 821) that would reauthorize through December 31, 2025, the authorities established by sections 841–843 of the Carl Levin and Howard P. “Buck” McKeon National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2015 (Public Law 113–291) and renew the requirements for annual reporting found at section 841(i) and 842(b).

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 826).

The agreement includes the House provision.

Sec. 821—Repeal of requirement for Inspector General of the Department of Defense to conduct certain reviews

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 506) that would amend section 847(b) of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2008 (Public Law 110–181) to repeal the requirement for the Department of Defense Inspector General to conduct periodic reviews to ensure that written opinions regarding the applicability of post-employment restrictions to activities that an official or former official may undertake on behalf of a contractor are provided and retained.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The agreement includes the Senate provision.

Sec. 822—Modification of contracts to provide extraordinary relief due to inflation impacts

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 5812) that would allow funds to be used to modify the terms and conditions of a contract or option to provide an economic price adjustment.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The agreement includes the Senate provision with a modifying amendment.

We recognize that higher than anticipated economic inflation continues to challenge the budgeting and execution processes of the Department of Defense and defense industrial base (DIB). The ability of the Department and DIB to adapt to economic conditions is a critical factor in maintaining the health of the DIB, especially when economic conditions are unusually volatile and in regard to firm fixed price contracts where industry bears the predominant financial risk.

While it is important for the Department to uphold and enforce contractual terms and conditions, we believe the Department should be provided tailored authority to engage extraordinary measures to address extraordinary economic impacts. The ability to make informed financial plans and decisions lies at the heart of competition. When unanticipated extraordinary economic events disrupt those plans and decisions, the result can be catastrophic for the DIB, including economic hardship, bankruptcy, and consolidation.

In order to support a robust DIB, we believe the Department needs additional temporary authorities to respond to the effects of recent and current inflation levels. We believe these authorities coupled with funding to mitigate inflation impacts will enable the Department to provide a measure of relief to the DIB where appropriate.

Subtitle C—Provisions Relating to Acquisition Workforce

Sec. 831—Key experiences and enhanced pay authority for acquisition workforce excellence

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 831) that would require the Department of Defense to establish rotational assignments for a certain percentage of the acquisition workforce through the public-private talent exchange, and amend section 1701b of title 10, United States Code, to add Department of Defense Field Activities and Defense Agencies and allow for up to five positions with enhanced pay.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The agreement includes the House provision with an amendment that would establish rotational assignments for up to 250 members of the acquisition workforce through the public-private talent exchange.

We recognize the value of industry exchanges and encourage broader use of the authority for Department personnel who volunteer for the opportunity to experience private sector service and bring back observations and lessons learned on management practices, technological expertise, and organizational agility and flexibility.

In expanding this statutory authority, we encourage the Under Secretary of Defense for Acquisition and Sustainment (USD A&S) to consider the recommendations put forth in the Defense Business Board's 2019 report on reducing barriers to industry-government personnel exchanges, and provide a briefing to the Committees on Armed Services of the Senate and the House of Representatives, not later than April 1, 2023, on progress made to address them, to include streamlining myriad existing exchange programs, strengthening civilian talent management, and proposing legislative changes that might be needed to modernize rules governing conflicts of interest and post-employment restrictions to achieve a more permeable workforce of motivated, diverse, and highly skilled individuals across the defense ecosystem.

Recognizing the need to balance filling the Department's acquisition workforce positions with broadening opportunities, like the public-private talent exchange, we encourage the USD A&S to request an increase to this statutory authority as appropriate. Additionally, policies governing such exchange opportunities should emphasize the career-enhancing and broadening nature of these exchanges, but should not be construed to be a requirement in determining promotion potential.

Sec. 832—Defense Acquisition University reforms

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 832) that would amend section 1746 of title 10, United States Code, to replace the requirement for full-time visiting professors from civilian colleges or universities with an expectation that the Secretary of Defense will ensure the Defense Acquisition University (DAU) collaborates with the acquisition research activities established under section 2361a of title 10, United States Code, and to direct the Under Secretary of Defense for Acquisition and Sustainment to appoint the president of the DAU by evaluating certain factors.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The agreement includes the House provision with modifying amendments.

Sec. 833—Modifications to Defense Civilian Training Corps

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 833) that would identify sources of expertise and collaboration for the Defense Civilian Training Corps.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The agreement includes the House provision with a clarifying amendment.

We recognize there are existing and expansive partnerships between the Department of Defense and academia that can be leveraged to ensure successful implementation of the Defense Civilian Training Corps (DCTC). Distinguishable from the Science, Mathematics, and Research for Transformation (SMART) Scholarship for Service program, which provides degree funding and a limited work commitment to science, technology, engineering and mathematics (STEM) students who conduct complex research to further the defense mission, DCTC is modeled on the Senior Reserve Officer Training Corps (SROTC), which was established in 1916 to ensure preparedness and develop military leadership to respond to a changing world. Today, the Department must recruit and retain leaders who can meet the challenges of managing strategic investment in the industrial base and increase innovation within the defense ecosystem. These leaders must represent a digitally literate acquisition workforce capable of collaborating across disciplines and with the private sector to partner with STEM professionals on emerging technology initiatives.

Therefore, the Acquisition Innovation Research Center, which engages the talents of faculty, students, and researchers from a broad, interdisciplinary network of collaborative universities, should serve a leading role in developing and deploying an SROTC-like curriculum designed to train future civilian leaders to employ evidence-based, data-driven decision-making to improve defense acquisition outcomes. We further encourage the Under Secretary of Defense for Acquisition and Sustainment to seek insight from and collaborate with the Under Secretary of Defense for Personnel and Readiness and the Under Secretary of Defense for Research and Engineering (to include the Strategic Engagements Director of the National Security Innovation Network), the Chief Digital and Artificial Intelligence Officer, and the commanders of the SROTC commands for each service.

Sec. 835—Curricula on software acquisitions and cybersecurity software or hardware acquisitions for covered individuals

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 843) that would require the President of the Defense Acquisition University to develop training curricula related to software acquisitions and cybersecurity software or hardware acquisitions to increase digital literacy within the acquisition workforce.

The agreement includes the House provision with modifying amendments.

Sec. 836—Department of Defense national imperative for industrial skills program

The agreement includes the Senate provision with a modifying amendment.

Sec. 843—Other transaction authority clarification

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 845) that would amend section 4022 of title 10, United States Code, by striking "military personnel and the supporting" and inserting "personnel of the Department of Defense or improving" and by striking "or materials in use" and inserting "materials, or installations in use".

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The agreement includes the House provision with an amendment that would clarify a definition, as well as create a 3-year pilot authority to use other transactions for installation or facility prototyping. The list of prototype project types at subparagraph (e)(5) is not meant to be restrictive, and should not be read to change the intent or purpose of the glossary entry in the Department of Defense Other Transaction Guide. To make the best use of the authority in this section, we strongly encourage the Department to invest in continuous and experiential education for management, technical, and contracting personnel, as well as attorneys, to understand how to effectively and innovatively use other transaction authority and explore flexible means to achieve mission results more quickly and with more value added.

Sec. 844—Prizes for advanced technology achievements

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 841) that would expand authority to award prizes to recognize innovative program management practices, as assessed and reported by the responsible senior leaders in the Department of Defense, that result in more rapid and efficient delivery of technology to the warfighter.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The agreement includes the Senate provision with a clarifying amendment.

We look forward to this demonstration exercise to be able to provide an opportunity to test out industrial capacity under realistic conditions, but not under the pressures of responding to a real-world crisis. We expect the results of this process will help validate current processes, or indicate areas where our processes need further refinement. We also think this demonstration will be helpful in identifying or validating the needs for certain critical items, such as microelectronics or critical materials, that may be needed in the event of prolonged contingency operation, but which might be denied during such crises.

We are aware that United States Special Operations Command (USSOCOM) already conducts recurring, scheduled, industry events through SOFWERX, multiple program executive officer (PEO) engagements, and an annual industry conference. We commend USSOCOM for undertaking these initiatives and encourage their continuation.

We also note the Department of the Navy's decision to cancel the Snakehead Large Displacement Unmanned Undersea Vehicle (LDUUV) program in fiscal year 2023. We understand significant advances in commercial technology have occurred since the start of the Snakehead LDUUV program and believe commercially available LDUUVs operated independently from submarines could be rapidly fielded to address current Department of Navy mission needs and capability gaps.

Therefore, we direct the Secretary of the Navy to conduct analysis and experimentation activities during fiscal year 2023, including through the full use of the authorities in this section, with the objective of identifying commercially available LDUUVs that could be fielded as rapidly as possible and deployed at scale as early as fiscal year 2024. The Secretary should focus such experimentation activities on LDUUVs that: (1) Do not require crewed submarines to serve as host platforms for the conduct of uncrewed operations; (2) Are commercially available; (3) Are at a high technology readiness level; (4) Possess multi-day endurance; (5) Are capable of operating at full ocean depth; and (6) Are capable of rapidly integrating different payloads for the performance of multiple missions in support of Navy and Marine Corps concepts of operations. The Secretary is directed to report to the congressional defense committees not later than December 1, 2023, on the actions taken to comply with this direction.

The agreement includes the Senate provision with a modifying amendment.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The agreement includes the House provision with an amendment that would require the Department to develop and assess a mission effectiveness metric for the SBIR and STTR programs.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The agreement includes the Senate provision.

We understand the Department of Defense's uneven application of CUI markings is particularly problematic for industry, which often receives little CUI training or guidance from the Government and is unsure of its responsibilities regarding this marking convention. We are also concerned with the extent and efficacy of the training, guidance, and oversight provided to the Department's Government personnel on the CUI marking convention, which has resulted in the overclassification of entire documents and a lack of clear portion markings within documents.

LEGISLATIVE PROVISIONS NOT ADOPTED

Modifications to middle tier acquisition authority

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 801) that would amend section 804 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2016 (Public Law 114-92) to require the component acquisition executives to approve an acquisition plan within 1 year of a program being designated a rapid prototyping or rapid fielding program under the Middle Tier of Acquisition (MTA) authority. The acquisition plan must include: (1) The potential pathway(s) to an existing or planned program of record; (2) A life-cycle cost estimate; and (3) A test plan to verify desired performance goals.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The agreement does not include this provision.

We support the use of MTA pathway to rapidly develop and deploy innovative technologies and capabilities to operational units. However, we are concerned that the desire for speed in these programs could lead to the omission of key elements of good program management. To mitigate this risk, the Department of Defense should have processes in place to ensure proper acquisition planning for MTA efforts that will result in successful transition to a program of record.

Therefore, we direct the Undersecretary of Defense for Acquisition and Sustainment, in coordination with the component acquisition executives, to submit an assessment of existing acquisition planning processes for MTA efforts not later than July 30, 2023. The assessment shall describe existing processes or procedures the Department is using to plan for: (1) The potential transition pathway or pathways to an existing or planned program of record; (2) A life-cycle cost estimate; and (3) A test plan to verify desired performance goals.

Preference for domestic foods for military working dogs

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 803) that would require the Director of the Defense Logistics Agency to give a preference for the acquisition of domestically-produced food for military working dogs.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The agreement does not include this provision.

We direct the Director of the Defense Logistics Agency to provide a briefing to the Committees on Armed Services of the Senate and the House of Representatives by June 1, 2023, on sourcing for food produced for military-working dogs. Such briefing should include sourcing over the last 3 years and tentative sourcing plans over the next 2 years.

The agreement does not include this provision.

Enhanced domestic content requirement for major defense acquisition programs

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 807) that would establish domestic content thresholds for certain acquisition programs, require a related assessment, and make provisions for the national technology and industrial base.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The agreement does not include this provision.

We encourage the Deputy Secretary of Defense to continue to pursue the pilot program established by section 871 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2022 (Public Law 117-81) for the purpose of identifying lessons learned and improving mission outcomes by quickly delivering solutions that fulfill critical operational needs arising from cross-service missions and at the seams between joint and service capabilities. We further encourage the Deputy Secretary for Defense to select a mission for the pilot program in the Joint All Domain Command and Control (JADC2) effort, specifically the role of the Under Secretary of Defense for Acquisition & Sustainment in establishing policies for acquiring the innovative technology and fielding the capabilities needed to achieve interoperability and common management across the JADC2 ecosystem. Therefore we direct the Under Secretary of Defense for Acquisition and Sustainment to provide a briefing, not later than February 1, 2023, on whether JADC2 is an appropriate environment for mission management, and if so, how the Under Secretary would plan for inclusion of funding in the President's budget given the challenge of delivering capabilities that are evolving on a commercial timeline.

Competition requirements for purchases from Federal Prison Industries

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 816) that would amend section 3905 of title 10, United States Code, to require the Secretary of Defense to conduct market research before purchasing a product listed in the latest edition of the Federal Prison Industries (FPI) catalog and would require the use of competitive procedures if the Secretary determines the FPI product is not comparable to products available from the private sector in price, quality, or time of delivery.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The agreement does not include this provision.

We note that Congress established FPI to help manage, train and rehabilitate inmates through employment. Congress established a 5 percent threshold in section 827 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2008 (Public Law 110-181), under which the Department of Defense (DOD) was to acquire products produced by FPI, as long as the products met the needs of the Department in terms of quality, performance, and price. We are aware of concerns about the decline in FPI's revenue generated from sales to DOD and Federal agencies. We believe that improvements in the ability of Federal agencies to better mine acquisition data, increases in the simplified acquisition threshold and the advent of e-commerce portals will provide both more opportunities and more insight into how well the program is serving federal government needs. In addition, the Joint Explanatory Statement to Accompany the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2022 (Committee Print No. 2) directed the Comptroller General of the United States to look at this program in more detail to find opportunities for improvement. We look forward to those preliminary observations being delivered by December 2022, to help inform any possible future congressional action related to FPI.

Require full domestic production of flags of the United States acquired by the Department of Defense

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The agreement does not include this provision.

We note that the matters raised in this provision are addressed elsewhere in this Act.

Compliance procedures for investigating the prohibition on criminal history inquiries by Federal contractors prior to conditional offer

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 824) that would require the Secretary of Defense to establish, and make available to the public, procedures under which an applicant for a position with a Department of Defense contractor may submit to the Secretary a complaint, or any other information, relating to compliance by the contractor.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The agreement does not include this provision.

Reestablishment of Commission on Wartime Contracting

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 825) that would reestablish the Commission on Wartime Contracting.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The agreement does not include this provision.

We acknowledge that the recommendations made by the Commission on Wartime Contracting in 2011 to address deficiencies in contract management and oversight have spurred meaningful internal review, improved coordination, and data integrity assurance within the Department of Defense. In a briefing directed by the Joint Explanatory Statement to Accompany the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2022 (Committee Print No. 2) on reforms made to contingency support and vendor accountability operations, the Department explained that in the early years of the conflicts in Iraq and Afghanistan, insufficient thought and effort were put into adopting and integrating joint capability lessons learned related to operational contract support, and more could have been done to recognize the impact on the larger enterprise.

Since then, in response to Commission recommendations, the Department has consolidated responsibilities, improved data accuracy, and created workforce training based on lessons learned. We recognize the need for continued improvement and institutionalization of lessons learned so that the Department will be better positioned to adapt or evolve its processes rapidly for future contingency contracting needs, without the steep learning curve documented by the Commission. The Government Accountability Office (GAO) has tracked this positive momentum and observed that operational contract support could be removed from the High Risk List if sufficient capacity and resourcing is invested in the Synchronized Pre-deployment Operational Tracker-Enterprise System; greater efficiency and accountability are achieved; and guidance on oversight, management, and accounting of contractors supporting U.S. military operations is updated. We look forward to the Comptroller General of the United States' evaluation of whether operational contract support is to remain on the High Risk List. Any related GAO recommendations will inform our future oversight.

Progress payment incentive pilot

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 827) that would require the Secretary of Defense to establish and implement a 4-year pilot program to make accelerated progress payments contingent upon responsiveness to Department of Defense goals for effectiveness, efficiency, and increasing small business contract opportunities.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The agreement does not include this provision.

We note that the matters raised in this provision are addressed elsewhere in this Act.

Report on Department of Defense Strategic Capabilities Office contracting capabilities

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 828) that would require a report on the contracting capabilities of the Department of Defense's Strategic Capabilities Office (SCO), including an assessment of the extent to which changes to these capabilities could benefit the SCO in carrying out its mission.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The agreement does not contain this provision.

We direct the Secretary of Defense, in coordination with the Under Secretary of Defense for Acquisition and Sustainment, the Under Secretary of Defense for Research and Engineering, and the Director of the Strategic Capabilities Office (SCO), to submit to the congressional defense committees a briefing on the adequacy of SCO contracting authorities not later than March 1, 2023. The briefing shall include: (1) A summary of the existing authorities of the SCO, including the mechanisms for contracting in support of existing programs; (2) An assessment of the average amount of time needed to conduct contracting actions through current mechanisms; (3) An assessment of the pros and cons of the current contracting processes for SCO in relation to their ability to rapidly develop and deploy technology in support of Department of Defense operational units; (4) An assessment of the type or types of contracting authority that would be most beneficial to the SCO in carrying out its mission in order to achieve desired speed and scale for the organization, including any limits or oversight measures that should be put into place; (5) An assessment of structural changes that may be needed in order to accommodate the preferred contracting approach for SCO; and

(6) The Secretary of Defense's recommendations for future authorities for the SCO.

Repeal of certain provisions relating to acquisition workforce incentives

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 834) that would repeal certain note provisions that have expired or been fully implemented in policy.

We note that section 834 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2017 (Public Law 114-283) is codified in title 10, United States Code, elsewhere in this Act.

Update to plan on reduction of reliance on services, supplies, or materials from covered countries

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 852) that would amend section 847 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2022 (Public Law 117-81) to identify critical defense requirements in the event of a crisis or conflict, and to establish related reporting requirements.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The agreement does not include this provision.

We look forward to receiving the report required by section 847 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2022 in January 2023, at which time we will consider follow-on actions that might be necessary.

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 859H) that would express the sense of Congress on modernizing defense supply chain management.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The agreement does not include this provision.

We note that, to meet the unique needs of the Department of Defense regarding continuity of supply chain management in both garrison and deployed or austere environments, the Department must prioritize digital supply chain management solutions that use durable devices and technologies designed to operate in remote regions with limited network connectivity.

The agreement does not include this provision.

Temporary suspension of COVID-19 vaccine mandate for Department of Defense contractors

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 866) that would require a report by the Comptroller General of the United States in the predicted effects of the requirement for Department of Defense contractors to receive a COVID-19 vaccine.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The agreement does not include this provision.

We continue to strive to understand the full impact of the COVID-19 virus on the defense industrial base, in particular the effects of the COVID vaccine mandate on contractor performance. We believe more robust data and a better understanding of a range of impacts can help inform future decision making.

Therefore, we direct the Comptroller General of the United States to conduct a study to examine the effects of the COVID-19 vaccine mandate on Department of Defense contractors. Such study should examine the effects of such mandate on contract costs, performance, delivery schedules, subcontractor and supply chain matters, and workforce impacts including increased or decreased rates of productivity or absenteeism. A briefing on the interim results of the study shall be provided to the Committees on Armed Services of the Senate and the House of Representatives by August 1, 2023, with the final report to be provided at a time mutually agreed with the committees.

Government Accountability Office report on Department of Defense contract financing and commercial best practices

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 867) that would require the Comptroller General of the United States to submit a report assessing a study on the effect that the Department of Defense's contract financing and profit policies have on the defense industry.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The agreement does not include this provision.

We are aware the Department of Defense has commissioned an independent study to evaluate financing mechanisms available in the Department's contracting toolbox to improve the effectiveness and efficiency of cash flow in the defense sector. We anticipate this study to provide useful findings and recommendations on the impacts to cash flow based on contract type, the impact on small businesses (especially based on the amount and sufficiency of cash flowing down to small business subcontractors from their primes), analysis of the tradeoffs in longer-term capitalization decisions made by the defense industrial base between pursuing private sector loans versus advanced government payments, and the potential impact government accounting system requirements for contractors have on the ability to access cash flow.

Not later than 1 year after the date of the completion of the Department's contract financing, the Comptroller General is directed to submit to the congressional defense committees a report assessing such study, including efforts the Department of Defense could take in light of the study findings to ensure fair and reasonable pricing of commercial products and services. We are also aware the Defense Contract Management Agency (DCMA) is conducting a review of data gathered on the degree to which prime contractors have flowed progress payments down to their subcontractors since March 2020, when the Department adjusted progress payment rates in response to COVID-19 impacts, and direct the Commander of DCMA to brief the Committees on Armed Services of the Senate and the House of Representatives on its data findings analysis by March 1, 2023.

Prohibition on contracting with employers that violated the National Labor Relations Act

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 868) that would prohibit the Secretary of Defense from entering into a contract with an employer found to have violated section 8(a) of the National Labor Relations Act (Public Law 74-198) during the 3-year period preceding the proposed date of award of the contract.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The agreement does not include this provision.

We note that if an offeror is found to have received final adjudication of a violation of the National Labor Relations Act, a contracting officer has authority to determine the offeror not responsible, thereby disqualifying it from award of a contract.

However, as the Acquisition Innovation Research Center (AIRC) stated in a report titled “Congressionally Mandated Study on Contractor Debarments for Violations of U.S. Labor Laws,” published pursuant to the Joint Explanatory Statement to Accompany the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2022 (Committee Print No. 2), contracting officers “are tasked with a myriad of responsibilities throughout the acquisition lifecycle . . . [and in] making their responsibility determinations Contracting Officers often do not have the necessary information or knowledge base to make informed decisions regarding the relevance and weight of various labor law violations.”

Recent reports from the Comptroller General of the United States indicate efforts are underway to improve information sharing between the Department of Labor and Federal agencies to ensure access to comprehensive and accurate information when making such responsibility determinations, however, in its report the AIRC observed such information transfer may not provide contracting officers or suspension and debarment officers the context and background needed to make fully informed decisions. The AIRC recommends additional training for contracting officers in how to find and assess data regarding labor violations and suggests requiring contractors to submit data regarding finally adjudicated labor law violations as part of regular representations and certifications to improve transparency, accuracy, and decision-making.

We therefore direct the AIRC to post the aforementioned report on its publicly accessible website and encourage the Under Secretary of Defense for Acquisition and Sustainment to host a conference with AIRC, and participants from government, industry, and academia, and create a summary of such conference, to improve reporting processes and understanding of labor violations within the existing statutory and regulatory framework.

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 871) that would authorize the Secretary of Defense to: (1) Select one or more Government-owned, contractor-operated facilities to manufacture insulin; (2) Use existing pharmaceutical manufacturing facilities of the Department of Defense to produce insulin; or (3) Establish new pharmaceutical manufacturing facilities to produce insulin.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The agreement does not include this provision.

We recognize the current challenges in maintaining a stable and resilient supply chain, especially for pharmaceutical agents. The recent COVID-19 pandemic response has highlighted the susceptibility of the supply chain to disruptions and the need for more robust investments from civilian agencies to oversee and mitigate those disruptions. As a vital subpopulation requiring an assured pharmaceutical agent supply in order to maintain force readiness and family support, we believe it is necessary to have a better understanding of the Department's requirements for such agents used to treat chronic health conditions, as well as planning and mitigation measures being taken to protect against supply chain disruptions.

Therefore, we direct the Under Secretary of Defense for Personnel and Readiness, in consultation with the Under Secretary of Defense for Acquisition and Sustainment, to brief the Committees on Armed Services of the Senate and the House of Representatives not later than July 1, 2023, on an analysis of the projected pharmaceutical agent needs to supply the military health system. Such analysis should include:

(1) Estimated total annual requirements needed in the military health system to treat chronic health conditions;

(2) Methods for satisfying requirements, including identification of any production shortfalls; and

(3) Options for mitigating production shortfalls, including identification of the agency or entity responsible for mitigation measures.

We are aware that there are a number of authorities available to other parts of the federal government, such as loans, loan guarantees, equity investments, and insurance/reinsurance processes, that can be helpful tools for incentivizing the engagement of U.S. private capital in a manner that furthers the U.S. national interest. Similar tools are also utilized by adversarial governments, therefore it is critical that the Department of Defense better understand and find the means to effectively use all such available tools to ensure that the Department can combat both the unintended consequences of long-standing economic policies, as well as the subversion and malign perversion of our open, competitive economic system.

Therefore, we direct the Secretary of Defense to provide a briefing to the congressional defense committees by not later than March 1, 2023, on the application, feasibility, and potential implementation of pathways for economic policy instruments that might be used to support and bolster U.S. national security and the defense industrial base, such as loans, loan guarantees, equity investments, and insurance/reinsurance processes. Such briefing should include:

(1) A description of similar authorities that are in use by other parts of the federal government, including limitations on their use, effectiveness and challenges in their execution;

(2) How the Department of Defense currently works with those other federal agencies to leverage existing authorities, as well as recommendations on how the Department might improve their ability to leverage those authorities;

(3) An analysis of any gaps in existing authorities where the Department might benefit from having similar authorities granted, as well as how it might staff and implement such authorities if they were to be granted;

(4) A detailed description of how loan guarantees could be vetted, approved, and managed by the Department, including mechanisms to ensure competition and transparency, and how they could protect the interests of the Government; and

(5) How such loan guarantees would be coordinated with other Government investment mechanisms or other private sector financing.

We believe the following:

(1) The Department of Defense released the "Electromagnetic Spectrum Superiority Strategy" (October 2020) and the corresponding "Electromagnetic Spectrum Superiority Strategy Implementation Plan" (August 2021);

(2) The purpose of the "Electromagnetic Spectrum Superiority Strategy" is to align electromagnetic spectrum activities across the Department of Defense to solve persistent gaps in the ability of the United States to project, achieve, and sustain electromagnetic spectrum superiority against adversaries and peer competitors, most notably Russia and China;

(3) A goal of the "Electromagnetic Spectrum Superiority Strategy" is to "Establish Effective EMS Governance" to unify Department of Defense-wide electromagnetic spectrum enterprise activities, develop a continuous process improvement culture, and promote policies that support Department of Defense electromagnetic spectrum capabilities and operations;

(4) Electromagnetic spectrum superiority underpins each of the four priorities of the "2022 National Defense Strategy of the Department of Defense;"

(5) The projecting, achievement, and sustainment of electromagnetic spectrum superiority is inherently a joint operational mission that is fundamental to the success of military missions carried out by the United States and its allies across all warfighting domains;

(6) Electromagnetic spectrum operations leadership in the Pentagon must be consolidated and unambiguous to address persistent gaps in coordination of joint electronic warfare among the services and fragmentation in guidance from leadership in the Department of Defense; and

We note the structural changes being executed and considered as the Chief of Space Operations (CSO) and Assistant Secretary of the Air Force for Space Acquisition and Integration (SAF/SQ) continue to establish their respective organizations. We further note the desire of the CSO to establish direct reporting units (DRU) and/or field operating agencies (FOA), to include conducting space warfighting analysis and enterprise talent management activities. To date, we have not received adequate justification for these DRU/FOA requests. Further, in the case of the Space Warfighting Analysis Center (SWAC), consideration of alignment to SAF/SQ does not appear to have been addressed, as was required by the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2022 (Public Law 117-81). Therefore, we direct that there should still be a desire to establish these organizations either as a DRU or FOA within the United States Space Force, and that not later than March 31, 2023, the Secretary of the Air Force shall provide a briefing to the congressional defense committees that includes:

The agreement includes the Senate provision with an amendment that would delete the requirement to maintain 24 amphibious ships in an operationally ready status.

We urge the Secretary of the Navy to maintain the classes of battle force ships at relatively equal levels of readiness to support global force management and operational plans.

We direct the Commandant of the Marine Corps to brief progress made in achieving Force Design 2030 to the Committees on Armed Services of the Senate and the House of Representatives every six months beginning April 1, 2023 and ending April 1, 2026. The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 1061).

The agreement includes the Senate provision.

We note that when the Department of Defense (DOD) transmitted the classified 2022 NDS to Congress, it did not submit an unclassified summary as required by statute and as occurred in the 2018 NDS process. Instead, the DOD provided a short, unclassified fact sheet that summarized, in broad terms, the main priorities of the 2022 NDS. While the Department has since released an unclassified summary of the NDS, we note that several months elapsed from the transmittal of the classified NDS to Congress and the release of the unclassified summary. This delay hampered efforts by members of Congress to explain the National Defense Strategy to the public and debate policy and budgetary choices within the Congress. Therefore, we believe mandating an unclassified form of the NDS will aid Congress in its oversight duties.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The agreement does not include this provision.

We strongly support the authority contained in section 127e of title 10, United States Code. However, we are concerned that written Departmental guidance may not have kept pace with standard operating procedures for the use of the authority or effectively captured lessons learned from the use of the authority. Therefore, we direct the Assistant Secretary of Defense for Special Operations and Low Intensity Conflict (ASD SO/LIC) and the Commander of United States Special Operations Command (USSOCOM) to review and update, as appropriate, written guidance for the use of the 127e authority. At a minimum, this enduring guidance should appropriately outline processes for obtaining Chief of Mission concurrence; reporting to the congressional defense committees; vetting of supported groups and individuals, to the extent practicable, for human rights, counterintelligence, force protection, and other concerns; and other best practices. We direct the ASD SO/LIC and the Commander of USSOCOM to provide a briefing to the congressional defense committees, not later than 90 days after the date of the enactment of this Act, on the results of the review and plans for appropriately updating written guidance.

Additionally, not later than 90 days after the date of the enactment of this Act, the ASD SO/LIC and the Commander of USSOCOM shall provide a briefing to the congressional defense committees on the processes used to assess, monitor, and evaluate programs and activities under section 127e of title 10, United States Code, and section 1202 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2018 (Public Law 115-91). We believe decisions related to authorized uses of U.S. military force are foundational to the concept of civilian control of the military. As such, we believe that any designation of foreign partner forces as eligible for the provision of collective self-defense that is made within the Department of Defense should not be made, absent extraordinary circumstances, by any officer or official lower than the Secretary of Defense. Lastly, we believe designations of foreign partner forces as eligible for the provision of collective self-defense should be regularly reviewed by the Secretary of Defense to ensure these designations remain consistent with controlling authorities for the use of military force, U.S. national security interests, policy, and strategic objectives.

Repository of local nationals working for or on behalf of Federal Government in theater of combat operations

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1046) that would express the sense of Congress that there are well-documented administrative issues with current and former Special Immigrant Visa (SIV) programs and would require the Secretary of Defense, in coordination with the Secretary of State, to establish and maintain a database listing all foreign nationals working for the U.S. Government or any contractor or subcontractor of the Department of Defense, the Department of State, or any other agency in a theater of combat operations within 1 year of enactment.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The agreement does not contain this provision.

We note that administrative issues such as verification of employment, characterization of service, personnel data, and biographical data needed for employment by a local national employee should not be a barrier for an applicant who has put themselves or their family at risk by providing faithful and valuable service in support of the U.S. Government. We further note that in response to section 1216 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2022 (Public Law 117-81) the Department of Defense, with the agreement of the Department of State, provided both obstacles and recommended improvements to the existing synchronized predeployment and operational tracker (SPOT) database to make it a future database of historical employment data for purposes of SIV processing for those employed under U.S. Government contracts. The recommended improvements could streamline the application process and provide independent and centralized verification that an applicant is indeed eligible for the program.

We expect a follow up briefing to the 1216 report not later than 180 days after the date of enactment of this Act by the Secretary of Defense, in consultation with the Secretary of State, on what measures will be taken within interagency and with industry to ensure the SPOT database can be a database of historical employment data for purposes of future SIV processing. The briefing should also: (1) Explain the process for transitioning, updating, or adding SPOT data fields that capture data required by employment verification of the SIV process; (2) Mechanisms for enforcing compliance of contracting companies to properly enter contracted personnel, specifically local national contracted personnel, in the updated SPOT database in compliance with applicable Defense Federal Acquisition Regulation Supplement and associated regulations; (3) Cost and time needed to transition the SPOT database so it can capture data necessary for employment verification of the SIV application; (4) Recommendations on how other Federal agencies may utilize the SPOT database, with exceptions for the Intelligence Community as necessary, as the source of historical employment verification under a U.S. Government contract for validating an individual's employment as part of the SIV process; (5) Feasibility of the Department of State to forego individual Employment Verification Letters and Letters of Recommendations for employment verification during the SIV process if the contracting company has properly filled out all the necessary data fields in the updated SPOT database; (6) Feasibility of contracting companies to generate annual official employment verification letters and letters of recommendation to local national employees for use of employment verification for any potential future SIV application; and (7) Any other matters the Secretaries may view as relevant.

Consultation of congressional defense committees in preparation of national defense strategy

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1050) that would amend section 113(g)(1) of title 10, United States Code, to allow the Secretary of Defense to seek the advice of the congressional defense committees during the development of the national defense strategy.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The agreement does not include this provision.

We note that formulating defense strategy is a critical executive function responsibility of the Department of Defense. However, we believe it is important that the Secretary of Defense, as well as senior defense leaders, seek out a diversity of opinions when crafting policy, including by consulting with congressional defense committees.

We further note that members serving on the congressional defense committees have a distinct perspective and expertise. For instance, members come from a myriad of backgrounds, to include those who have previously served in uniform, or in the government at the highest echelons within national security. Furthermore, many members travel extensively, both domestically and abroad. During visits to U.S. military bases and embassies, members may acquire views on the effectiveness of U.S. policy that are different from those of senior leaders serving in the Department. In addition, members routinely meet with international leaders and participate in global conferences. The knowledge garnered from these meetings can be critical when shaping future policy.

Finally, as the elected official charged with representing their constituents, members will often hear directly from citizens on issues and concerns. This feedback can be a powerful input to senior leadership as they devise defense policy objectives and plans.

Therefore, we expect the Secretary of Defense to seek the advice of the congressional defense committees during the development of the next national defense strategy.

We direct the Secretary of the Army to provide a report to the congressional defense committees not later than April 15, 2023, on MQ-1 fielding, to include an update to the March 2019 study on this subject and the plan to acquire and field aircraft funded in this legislation, assuming fiscal year 2023 appropriations are provided.

We further note that the submission of such a strategy and plan to the appropriate congressional committees by June 25, 2022 is required by law in section 1223(f) of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2022 (Public Law 117-81). We note that timely submission of this strategy and plan is important for continued progress on U.S. regional and national defense priorities and critical to enabling essential congressional oversight of such strategy.

Subtitle D—Matters Relating to Russia

Sec. 1241—Modification and extension of Ukraine Security Assistance Initiative

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1232) that would extend by 1 year section 1250 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2016 (Public Law 114-92) to authorize the Secretary of Defense to provide security assistance and intelligence support to Ukraine; harmonize the authority with changes made in the Consolidated Appropriations Act, 2022 (Public Law 117-103) and subsequent Ukraine Supplemental Appropriations; allow transfers of equipment to replenish comparable stocks of equipment provided by allies and partners to Ukraine; and authorize the appropriation of $1.0 billion for such purposes. The House bill also contained a provision (sec. 1236) that would authorize funds to provide assistance to Ukrainian military pilots and associated persons for training, including training on fixed-wing aircraft and other platforms as appropriate for air-to-air or air-to-ground combat.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 1233).

The agreement includes the House provision with an amendment that would extend the authority through fiscal year 2023; harmonize the authority with changes made in the Consolidated Appropriations Act, 2022 and subsequent Ukraine Supplemental Appropriations; allow transfers of equipment to replenish comparable stocks of equipment provided by allies and partners to Ukraine; and modify an element regarding the provision of training for Ukrainian personnel on manned and unmanned aerial capabilities to make clear that such assistance may include items and training related to fixed- and rotary-wing aircraft such as attack, strike, airlift, and surveillance aircraft. The provision would also authorize the appropriation of $800 million for such purposes. We note that the funds authorized for the Ukraine Security Assistance Initiative via this Act are separate from and additive to any supplemental funds.

Additionally, we note that elsewhere in this Act there is a requirement to provide a plan for the provision of security assistance to the Armed Forces of Ukraine over the short and medium term. We expect this report will cover Ukraine's aerial capability needs over that duration and the plan to build and improve upon such capacities.

Sec. 1242—Extension of limitation on military cooperation between the United States and Russia

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The agreement includes the House provision with an amendment that would modify the Annual Report on Military and Security Developments Involving the Russian Federation to include the impact of sanctions on improvements to the Russian military and its proxies.

We note that the Department is working diligently to capture lessons learned from assistance to Ukraine and to carefully study the conflict as an example of modern battlefield conditions with a participating major state competitor. We note the importance of such efforts for U.S. planning and preparation for potential future contingencies.

Sec. 1244—Temporary authorizations related to Ukraine and other matters

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 6233) that would provide temporary authorizations related to Ukraine and address other Department of Defense acquisition matters.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The agreement includes the Senate provision with a modifying amendment.

We recognize that the Department of Defense (DOD) would benefit from temporary acquisition flexibilities to increase the Department's stocks of critical munitions, provide material and related services to allies and partners that have supported Ukraine, and provide material and services to Ukraine. We also support enabling the Secretary of Defense to enter into cooperative acquisition agreements through the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) Support and Procurement Organization. Finally, we believe providing multi-year procurement authority for certain munitions programs is essential to increase the Department's stocks of such munitions, improve warfighting readiness, provide the defense industrial base with predictable production opportunities and firm contractual commitments, ensure consistent funding across the Department's Future Years Defense Program, increase and expand defense industrial capacity, and coordinate the timing and funding for capital expenditures with defense contractors.

We direct the head of an agency, as defined in this section, to notify in writing the congressional defense committees not more than 30 days after using an authority provided in subsections (a) or (c) of this section. This notification shall include the specific authority used, a description of such use, reason for such use, and expected outcome of such use.

Sec. 1245—Prohibition on availability of funds relating to sovereignty of the Russian Federation over internationally recognized territory of Ukraine

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1233) that would extend by 1 year the prohibition imposed by section 1245 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2016 (Public Law 114-92) on the use of fiscal year 2023 funds to implement any activity that recognizes the sovereignty of Russia over Crimea. This section would also allow the Secretary of Defense to waive the prohibition if the Secretary determines that doing so would be in the national security interest of the United States and submits notification to Congress.

The Senate amendment contained similar provisions (secs. 1232, 6232, and 6234).

The agreement includes the Senate provision with an amendment that would expand the prohibition to cover all territory internationally recognized to be the sovereign territory of Ukraine, including Crimea and the territory Russia falsely claims to have annexed in Kherson Oblast, Zaporizhzhia Oblast, Donetsk Oblast, and Luhansk Oblast.

Sec. 1246—Report on Department of Defense plan for the provision of short and medium-term security assistance to Ukraine

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1238) that would require the Secretary of Defense to submit reports on the Department of Defense plan for responding to Russia's invasion of Ukraine.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

Sec. 1247—Oversight of United States assistance to Ukraine

The House bill contained provisions (secs. 1049, 1078, 1241, 1243, and 1244) with regard to oversight, accountability, and end-use monitoring related to the U.S. Government's response to Russia's further invasion of Ukraine.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The agreement includes the House provision with an amendment that would express the sense of Congress on oversight, transparency, accountability, and end-use monitoring efforts. It would also require a comprehensive assessment of the oversight arrangements established with respect to United States assistance to Ukraine, including the organizational framework the Inspectors General are using or planning to adopt for oversight; whether there are any gaps in oversight; any failures by relevant organizations to cooperate with oversight; the oversight footprint in Europe; and relevant lessons learned.

We direct the Inspector General of the Department of Defense to provide the congressional defense committees, not later than March 1, 2023, with a comprehensive briefing on the status and findings of Inspector General oversight, reviews, audits, and inspections of the activities conducted by the Department of Defense responds to Russia's further invasion of Ukraine.

We direct the Secretary of Defense, not later than March 1, 2023, to provide the congressional defense committees with a briefing on efforts to conduct end-use monitoring and accountability measures for defense articles provided to Ukraine, including: Department of Defense efforts to work with partners and allies to enhance accountability and end-use monitoring; efforts to prevent illicit distribution or use of such articles; and any gaps in personnel, resourcing, or technologies to facilitate these efforts. The briefing shall also include a discussion of any relevant lessons learned from accountability and end-use monitoring of U.S. assistance in Ukraine for assistance to U.S.

partners in potential future conflicts, and a discussion of the applicability of past accountability and end-use monitoring lessons learned for assistance to Ukraine.

The agreement includes the House provision with an amendment that would consolidate and make simplifying changes to the reporting requirements.

We expect the required report will include analysis of the People's Liberation Army Strategic Support Force, including space and network systems, as appropriate.

Sec. 1252—Modification of Indo-Pacific Maritime Security Initiative to authorize use of funds for the Coast Guard

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1243) that would modify the Indo-Pacific Maritime Security Initiative (MSI), authorized by section 1263 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2016 (Public Law 114-92), as amended, to authorize the Secretary of Defense to utilize funds under the authority to facilitate participation of U.S. Coast Guard personnel and capabilities in the execution of training, exercises, and other activities with foreign partners under the MSI.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The agreement includes the Senate provision.

We strongly support the use of MSI in support of multilateral initiatives to enhance maritime domain awareness and maritime security activities of foreign partners and information fusion centers in the Indo-Pacific, including through the Quad's Indo-Pacific Maritime Domain Awareness Initiative.

Sec. 1253—Modification of prohibition on participation of the People's Republic of China in rim of the Pacific (RIMPAC) naval exercises to include cessation of genocide by China

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1315) that would amend section 1259(a)(1) of the John S. McCain National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2019 (Public Law 115-232) to require the Secretary of Defense to certify that China has ceased committing ongoing genocide in China, recognized and apologized for committing such genocide, and engaged in a credible justice and accountability process for all victims of such genocide prior to lifting the prohibition on China's participation in the Rim of the Pacific naval exercises.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The agreement includes the House provision with an amendment that would make clarifying changes.

Sec. 1254—Extension and modification of Pacific Deterrence Initiative

The House bill contained provisions (secs. 1305 and 1307) that would amend section 1251 of the William M. (Mac) Thornberry National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2021 (Public Law 116-283) related to the Pacific Deterrence Initiative (PDI) and the independent assessment of the Commander of United States Indo-Pacific Command (USINDOPACOM).

The House bill also contained a provision (sec. 1306) that would require a report by the Commander of USINDOPACOM describing the support and sustainment for critical capabilities in the USINDOPACOM area of responsibility that are necessary to meet operational requirements in a conflict with a strategic competitor of a duration that exceeds six months.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 1241) that would extend and modify the PDI.

The agreement includes a provision that would combine relevant portions of the Senate and the House of Representatives provisions and make other clarifying and conforming changes.

We direct the Commander of USINDOPACOM, as part of the briefing on the Commander's independent assessment, to provide:

(1) An assessment of the feasibility and advisability of enhancing defense cooperation with allies and partners in the Indo-Pacific; and

(2) A description of the support and sustainment for critical capabilities in the USINDOPACOM area of responsibility that are necessary to meet operational requirements in a conflict with a strategic competitor of a duration that exceeds six months.

We reiterate our strong support for the PDI as means to prioritize Department of Defense efforts in support of enhancing U.S. deterrence and defense posture, reassuring allies and partners, and increasing readiness and capability in the Indo-Pacific region, primarily west of the International Date Line. (5) Any other matters the Secretary deems relevant.

Cyber threat information collaboration environment program

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1504) that would direct the Secretary of Homeland Security, in coordination with the Secretary of Defense and the Director of National Intelligence, acting through the Director of the National Security Agency (NSA), to develop an information collaboration environment to enable government and industry to better identify, mitigate, and prevent malicious cyber activity through shared understanding of cyber threats and events. The collaboration environment would provide limited access to appropriate operationally relevant data about cybersecurity risks and cybersecurity threats, including malware forensics and data from network sensor programs, on a platform that enables query and analysis.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The agreement does not include this provision.

However, we note that the need for government and private sector stakeholders to be able to share and consume cybersecurity-related information on a single platform, or at least achieve interoperability across the information technology systems used for situational awareness and threat assessment, remains as urgent as ever. While we believe that the lead for this effort ought to reside within the Department of Homeland Security (DHS), there remains an important role for Department of Defense components and entities such as the NSA. Noting that there may be related efforts that DHS’ Cybersecurity & Infrastructure Security Agency (CISA) is currently exploring with federal partners, we direct the Director of NSA, in consultation with the Director of CISA, not later than April 30th, 2023, to conduct a study and brief the Committees on Armed Services of the Senate and the House of Representatives on how Department of Defense components and entities, such as the NSA, can support the development of the environment envisioned by the House provision. Additionally, the study shall assess how NSA can technically and materially support the current nascent efforts at CISA, and report to the committees with a detailed analysis of: (1) The expertise, policies, and resources required to support the development, deployment, operation, security, and maintenance of a collaboration environment; (2) The classified and unclassified platforms, systems, and processes currently employed by the Department of Defense for information sharing across the Department, with interagency partners, and with the private sector, and a determination of how such tools and platforms can be leveraged by CISA and the wider interagency; (3) A cost estimate for a collaboration environment based on the aforementioned elements of the assessment; and (4) Any other matter as determined by the NSA Director.

We note that the agreement includes provisions to enhance oversight of Department operations in the information environment, including both military information support operations and cyberspace operations. However, we are concerned that there is not yet sufficient clarity on how the Department of Defense plans, executes, mans, trains, and equips for electromagnetic spectrum operations (EMSO).

We therefore direct the Department to submit to the congressional defense committees not later than 180 days following the enactment of this Act a briefing outlining, with respect to EMSO:

(1) The authorities governing operational activities;

(2) The level of delegation of those authorities in various operational scenarios;

(3) Coordination and integration of EMSO activities with other operations in the information and other domains;

(4) Stakeholders and equities with regard to EMSO doctrine and employment; and

We note the continued importance of assured access to space, and believe that in carrying out phase two of the acquisition strategy for the National Security Space Launch program, the Secretary of the Air Force should ensure that launch services are procured only from launch service providers that use launch vehicles meeting Federal requirements with respect to required payloads to reference orbits. With regard to phase two, we direct that during fiscal year 2023, the Commander of Space System Command provide a briefing to the congressional defense committees not later than 14 days following completion of a mission assignment board on the assignments made during the covered period.

(d) capitalize on competition across the commercial launch industry;

(e) examine all possible options for awarding contracts for launches during the period covered by the phase, including: block buys; indefinite delivery, indefinite quantity; or a hybrid approach;

(f) consider tailorable mission assurance options informed by previous launch vehicle performance metrics;

(g) include options for adding launch providers, launch systems, or both, during the execution of phase three to address manifest changes beyond the planned national security space unique launches at the time of initial award;

(h) maintain understanding of the commercial launch industry and launch capacity needed to fulfill the requirements of the National Security Space Launch program; and

(i) allow for rapid development and on-orbit deployment of enabling and transformational technologies required to address emerging requirements, including with respect to—

(i) Delivery of in-space transportation, logistics, and on-orbit servicing capabilities to enhance the persistence, sensitivity, and resiliency of national security space missions in a contested space environment;

Sense of the Senate and briefing on nuclear cooperation between the United States and the United Kingdom

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1517) that would express the sense of the Senate that the independent nuclear deterrents of the United States, the United Kingdom, and the French Republic are the supreme guarantee of the security of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO). The provision would further express the sense of the Senate that the United States and the United Kingdom face similar challenges in modernizing their aging nuclear deterrents and that continued nuclear cooperation between the United States and the United Kingdom is in the national security interests of the United States. Finally, the provision would also require a briefing on opportunities to further enhance and strengthen the bilateral partnership between the nuclear enterprises of the United States and the United Kingdom.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The agreement does not include this provision.

We believe the following:

(1) The United States strategic nuclear deterrent, and the independent strategic nuclear deterrents of the United Kingdom and the French Republic, are the supreme guarantee of the security of the NATO alliance and continue to underwrite peace and security for all members of the NATO alliance;

(2) The security of the NATO alliance also relies upon nuclear sharing arrangements that predate, and are fully consistent with, the Treaty on the Non-Proliferation of Nuclear Weapons, done at Washington, London, and Moscow on July 1, 1968, and entered into force on March 5, 1970 (commonly referred to as the “Nuclear Non-Proliferation Treaty”);

(3) Such arrangements provide for the forward deployment of United States nuclear weapons in Europe, along with the supporting capabilities, infrastructure, and dual-capable aircraft dedicated to the delivery of United States nuclear weapons, provided by European NATO allies;

(4) In parallel to the independent commitments of the United States and the United Kingdom to the enduring security of NATO, the nuclear programs of the United States and the United Kingdom have enjoyed significant collaborative benefits as a result of the cooperative relationship formalized in the Agreement for Cooperation on the Uses of Atomic Energy for Mutual Defense Purposes, signed at Washington on July 3, 1958, and entered into force on August 4, 1958, between the United States and the United Kingdom (commonly referred to as the “Mutual Defense Agreement”);

(5) The unique partnership between the United States and the United Kingdom has enhanced sovereign military and scientific capabilities, strengthened bilateral ties, and resulted in the sharing of costs;

(6) As the international security environment deteriorates and potential adversaries expand and enhance their nuclear forces, the extended deterrence commitments of the United Kingdom play an increasingly important role in supporting the security interests of the United States and allies of the United States and the United Kingdom;

(7) Additionally, the extension of the nuclear deterrence commitments of the United Kingdom to members of the NATO alliance strengthens collective security while reducing the burden placed on United States nuclear forces to deter potential adversaries and assure allies of the United States;

(8) It is in the national security interest of the United States to support the United Kingdom with respect to the decision of the Government of the United Kingdom to maintain its nuclear forces to deter countries that are “significantly increasing and diversifying their nuclear arsenals” and “investing in novel nuclear technologies and developing new ‘warfighting’ nuclear systems” that could threaten NATO allies, as outlined in the March 2021 report of the Government of the United Kingdom entitled, “Global Britain in a Competitive Age: The Integrated Review of Security, Defence, Development and Foreign Policy”;

(9) As the United States continues to modernize its aging nuclear forces to ensure its ability to continue to field a nuclear deterrent that is safe, secure, and effective, the United Kingdom faces a similar challenge;

(10) Bilateral cooperation on such programs as the Trident II D5 weapons system, the common missile compartment for the future Dreadnought and Columbia classes of submarines, and the parallel development of the W93/Mk7 warhead of the United States and the replacement warhead of the United Kingdom, will allow the United States and the United Kingdom to responsibly address challenges within their legacy nuclear forces in a cost-effective manner that preserves independent, sovereign control; is consistent with each country's obligations under the Nuclear Non-Proliferation Treaty; and supports nonproliferation objectives; and

(11) Continued cooperation between the nuclear programs of United States and the United Kingdom is essential to ensuring that the NATO alliance continues to be supported by credible nuclear forces capable of preserving peace, preventing coercion, and deterring aggression.

We direct the Under Secretary of Defense for Acquisition and Sustainment, not later than March 4, 2023, to brief the Committees on Armed Services of the Senate and the House of Representatives, the Senate Committee on Foreign Relations, and the House Foreign Affairs Committee on opportunities to further enhance and strengthen the bilateral partnership between the nuclear enterprises of the United States and the United Kingdom, including potential cooperation in areas such as advanced manufacturing, microelectronics, supercomputing, and production modernization.

Sense of Congress on Range of the Future and support to commercial space launch activity

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1608) that would express the sense of Congress on the Range of the Future initiative and encourage further interagency collaboration on options to improve the infrastructure at Department of Defense launch ranges and spaceports.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The agreement does not include this provision.

We believe the following:

(1) Section 1610 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2022 (Public Law 117–81) contained a provision requiring the United States Space Force to deliver a report on its Range of the Future initiative;

(2) Based on the details in that report, that the Nation's launch service providers, consistent with decades of national policy, now lead the world in space access, that United States leadership in this strategic capability is critical to national security and economic vitality, and that it is critical to the Nation to continue encouraging and enabling United States space access capabilities to flourish and expand;

(3) The rapid growth of the commercial launch industry places a growing demand on Department of Defense resources at Federal space launch ranges, and that this demand growth will continue for the foreseeable future;

(4) The 1960s-era infrastructure of the two Department of Defense launch ranges primarily responsible for meeting its assured access to space mission under section 2273 of title 10, United States Code, and complying with section 2276 of such title, is under increasing strain, and needs to be replaced with a modern, state of the art launch infrastructure that encourages and enables continued growth and leadership in space access;

(5) Maintenance of common use critical infrastructure like roads, culverts, bridges, deluge and water treatment facilities, supply lines, and electrical networks, among others, require immediate attention;

(6) Investments in infrastructure have not kept pace with commercial demand primarily due to existing authorities which limit reimbursement, flexible financial investment facilities, and reinvestment of revenue in spaceport sustainment, modernization, and growth;

(7) The burgeoning commercial space industry requires a more holistic, responsive process leveraging public and private investment;

(8) The Department of Defense is constrained to provide services to commercial users only when not needed for public use, yet at the same time must promote commercial space launch capabilities as a critical enabler to national security;

(9) The United States Space Force has made great use of existing authorities and those provided by other non-Federal entities to leverage other sources of commercial and State investment to keep pace with demand;

(10) A similar State business development entity would be useful for supporting commercial space launch capability development in California at Vandenberg Space Force Base and other spaceports, and Congress looks forward to assisting the Department of Defense in improving its ability to plan and support commercial innovation while continuing to provide world class launch and test facilities; and

(11) The Secretary of Defense and the Department should engage with all stakeholders, including National Aeronautics and Space Administration, other relevant Federal agencies, and the associated congressional authorizing committees of jurisdiction, in any reporting, negotiation, policy, and potential legislative proposals on this matter.

Sense of the Senate on personnel for the Space Development Agency

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 6501) that would express the sense of the Senate that as the Space Development Agency (SDA) transfers into the United States Space Force in October 2022, the SDA should retain the original organization structure including three Senior Executive Service (SES) positions.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The agreement does not include this provision.

We understand that that the Space Development Agency, (SDA) which transferred to the Space Force on October 1, 2022, will retain three Senior Executive Service (SES) Branch positions from the Office of the Secretary of Defense (OSD) that are term-limited ending on December 31, 2023. After December 31, 2023, these three SES billets will return to the pool of SES positions held by the OSD. As found in section 1601 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2021 (Public Law 116-283), which effectuated this transfer, the Congress was explicit to the Department of Defense to do no harm in the transfer given the no-fail mission entrusted to the SDA for missile warning to protect the homeland. Section 1601(d)(2) states that “the transfer under paragraph (1) [requiring the transfer to be not later than October 1, 2022] of the Space Development Agency from the Office of the Secretary of Defense to the Space Force shall include the transfer of funding, duties, responsibilities and personnel of the Agency as of the day before the date of transfer.” In addition, the conference report to section 1601 (House Report 116-617) states that the congress expects that the director of the SDA “to retain the equivalent position of tier 3 Senior Executive Service or an official of the Armed Forces in grade O-9.” Overall, the Department of Defense historically only fills around 85 percent of total SES allocations, while the Space Force has a total of 16 SES permanent positions.

Therefore, we strongly encourage the Secretary of Defense to permanently allocate three SES positions to the SDA to meet congressional intent as found in section 1601 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2021. We direct the Secretary of Defense, in consultation with the Secretary of the Air Force, to brief to the congressional defense committees not later than March 31, 2023, on efforts to ensure the SDA has three SES positions that are permanent and do not count against the 16 SES positions currently held by the Space Force.

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1708) that would require the Secretary of Defense to conduct a study on the rate of depletion expected for certain critical munitions in a large-scale conflict scenario at various levels of intensity, detail certain required elements of such study, and require the Secretary to provide to the congressional defense committees a report and briefing on the study.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The agreement does not include this provision.

Ukraine Critical Munitions Acquisition Fund

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1709) that would establish a revolving fund to be known as the “Ukraine Critical Munitions Acquisition Fund.”

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The agreement does not include this provision.

We note that elsewhere in this Act, we include legislative provisions and funding recommendations that are intended to help the Department of Defense (DOD) increase munitions productions and expand the industrial base to better adjust to demand in stressing conditions. However, we note the challenges in balancing DOD needs and forecasting additional foreign demands for US-made munitions. The current situation with support to Ukraine highlights the impact exceedingly long timelines associated with foreign military sales (FMS) can have in an active warfighting situation. We recognize a revolving fund that forward finances munitions for which FMS cases are likely to help alleviate this problem by creating a requirement ahead of FMS cases such that many munitions could be already in production or delivered when a Letter of Offer and Acceptance (LOA) is signed. Since such sales would still be subject to significant congressional oversight, this would also help DOD smooth production over time while maintaining adequate congressional levers to ensure good stewardship of the taxpayers' dollars.

Therefore, we direct the Secretary of Defense to provide a briefing not later than 150 days after the enactment of this Act to the congressional defense committees on the feasibility and advisability of establishing mechanisms to procure in an expedited fashion munitions in advance of the establishment of a formal requirement, whether for the use of U.S. forces or for other purposes, including sale to foreign partners or allies. This briefing shall include the following elements:

(1) A description of the current process of munitions requirements generation and programming for munitions by the Office of the Secretary of Defense, the Joint Staff and the military departments, including identification of any obstacles or impediments that add excessively to the timeline for production or provision of such munitions to partners and allies;

(2) A description of the current process and average timeline for implementing signed LOAs resulting from the FMS process;

(3) An estimate of the anticipated demand from non-US countries for US-made munitions through 2035;

(4) A discussion of whether US Total Munitions Requirements should account for protracted warfare;

(5) An estimate of the extent to which creation of munitions purchase requirements ahead of formal agreement and production of munitions before LOAs are signed would enable the United States to meet FMS demand more quickly and serve US interests;

(6) A discussion of whether US Total Munitions Requirement (TMR) requirements should account for potential future drawdowns or other stockpiling requirements;

(7) Recommendations on methods, processes, methodologies, tools or other mechanisms that could be used to streamline the requirements and acquisition process to substantially drive down the time and cost associated with munitions production.

We note that Chapter 169 of title 10, United States Code, provides authority to the Secretaries concerned to privatize lodging facilities. The Secretary of the Army implemented the Privatization of Army Lodging in 2009 and has indicated cost avoidance of $605.8 million since inception and $85.2 million annually with better quality of facilities and higher customer satisfaction. However, according to the Government Accountability Office's (GAO) report published on June 9, 2021, titled "Military Lodging: DOD Should Provide Congress with More Information on Army's Privatization and Better Guidance to the Military Services" (GAO-21-214), found that the Army may be overstating its cost avoidance due to the methodology it uses to calculate said cost avoidance leaving in question if the reported financial benefits of privatization have actually been achieved.

Therefore, we direct the Secretary of the Navy and the Secretary of the Air Force to provide a briefing to the congressional defense committees by not later than December 1, 2023, as to the anticipated steady state cost avoidance that could be anticipated if a lodging privatization effort were adopted, any barriers to implementing, and any impact to traveling servicemembers. The methodology to calculate any cost avoidance should take into account GAO's concerns over the Army's existing process and address how and if the cost avoidance metrics are impacted.

Plutonium pit production capacity

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 3111) that would require the Secretary of Energy to produce 30 war reserve plutonium pits at Los Alamos National Laboratory and 50 war reserve plutonium pits at the Savannah River Plutonium Processing Facility (SRPPF). It would also require the Secretary of Defense to annually notify and justify its requirement for plutonium pit production and for the Secretary of Energy to certify that it is able to meet the requirement of the Department of Defense.

The Senate amendment contained provisions (secs. 1524, 1528, and 1529) that would limit the funds authorized for fiscal year 2023 for the Office of the Under Secretary of Defense for Acquisition and Sustainment until the plan required by section 2538a(a) of title 50, United States Code, is submitted. The provision would also require certain reporting from the Chairman of the Nuclear Weapons Council, and would remove outdated reporting and briefing requirements included in section 3120 of the John S. McCain National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2019 (Public Law 115-232) and would extend the annual certification requirement to 2029, among other things.

The agreement does not include these provisions.

We note the significant challenges that the Department of Energy and the National Nuclear Security Administration (NNSA) have experienced in attempting to reestablish a plutonium pit production capability over the past two decades. Reestablishing basic nuclear weapons development and production capabilities is of paramount importance to the national security of the United States and its allies. During testimony before the Committee on Armed Services of the Senate on May 4, 2022, the Vice Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, Admiral Christopher Grady, articulated the military requirement, stating, "The military requirement is clear, 80 pits per year as soon as possible. If not by 2030, then as soon as possible after that." Since the closure of the Rocky Flats Plant in 1992, the United States has tried and failed on three prior occasions to restore its ability to produce plutonium pits for the maintenance and modernization of its nuclear weapons stockpile. The current two-site solution for Los Alamos National Laboratory (LANL) and the Savannah River Plutonium Pit Processing Facility (SRPPF) represents the fourth, and most advanced, attempt.

While we recognize the progress NNSA has made in maturing and advancing the current two-site solution, and appreciate NNSA's stated commitment to produce no fewer than 80 war reserve plutonium pits per year as close to 2030 as possible, we remain deeply concerned that these projects are not expected to meet statutory requirements. The schedule risk of the plutonium pit production projects has been widely acknowledged. According to a review of SRPPF by NNSA (Critical Decision (CD)-1 Independent Project Review (IPR): Savannah River Plutonium Processing Facility (SRPPF), March 15, 2021), the facility will not be ready to produce 50 war reserve pits until at least 2036, 6 years after it is needed to meet the current statutory deadline to produce 80 war reserve plutonium pits by 2030. In testimony before the Committee on Armed Services of the Senate on March 9, 2022, Admiral Charles Richard, Commander of U.S. Strategic Command, confirmed that "we now know we will not get 80 pits per year by 2030, as is statutorily required. And even unlimited money at this point will not buy that back."

It is imperative that the Nuclear Weapons Council develop plans for supporting ongoing nuclear weapons modernization programs that realistically reflect NNSA's capability to achieve plutonium pit production requirements. Accordingly, we direct the Chairman of the Nuclear Weapons Council and the Administrator for Nuclear Security to jointly conduct a review of plutonium pit production and submit a plan to the congressional defense committees, not later than March 31, 2023, that includes high-confidence assessments of projected dates for the achievement of a production capacity of no fewer than 80 war reserve plutonium pits per year. The plan shall include, at a minimum:

(1) A preferred option and any alternatives for establishing a sustainable capability to produce not fewer than 80 war reserve pits per year, including projected achievable deadlines at 70 percent and 90 percent confidence levels, as determined by the NNSA Director of Cost Estimating and Program Evaluation;

(2) A preferred option and any alternatives for ensuring the on-time delivery of ongoing nuclear weapons life extension, modification, and development programs that reflect the pit production timelines devised under paragraph 1;

(3) Any other analysis and information the Chairman or Administrator consider appropriate; and

(4) Any dissenting views by members of the Nuclear Weapons Council to the plan, as appropriate.

In addition, we direct the Administrator for Nuclear Security:

(1) Not later than March 1, 2023, to brief the congressional defense committees on NNSA's progress toward achieving the Critical Decision 2 milestone for the LANL and SRPPF plutonium pit production projects and establishing a cost and schedule baseline for each; and

(2) Not later than June 30, 2023, to brief the congressional defense committees on options for partnering with entities from private industry with expertise in advanced manufacturing and production techniques related to nuclear metallurgy to seek cost efficiencies and mitigate supply chain risks related to the production of plutonium pits, including the production and integration of glove boxes.

Comptroller General study on National Nuclear Security Administration management and operation contracting process

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 3118) that would require the Comptroller General of the United States to conduct a study to identify and assess the process by which the Administrator for Nuclear Security awards management and operating (M&O) contracts. It would also require the Administrator for Nuclear Security to, upon receipt of the Comptroller's study, provide a briefing to the congressional defense committees on any statutory changes deemed necessary to improve the management and operation contract awarding process.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The agreement does not include this provision.

We note, however, our concern about a lack of predictability in the contracting schedule for large M&O contracts, including the recently cancelled contract at Pantex and Y-12. We also observe that while the NNSA has made significant strides in improving its contract and project management oversight performance over the past decade, it remains on the Government Accountability Office's "High Risk List" since its designation in 2009. Additionally, we are concerned that cancellations or extended delays in the contracting process can pose a risk to the mission in cases where underperforming incumbents are unable to be replaced in a timely manner. Therefore, we direct the Comptroller General of the United States to conduct a study on cancelled and delayed National Nuclear Security Administration M&O contracts to identify and assess the effects of cancelling or delaying the award or solicitation of M&O contracts at facilities in the nuclear enterprise, to include but not limited to Pantex and Y-12. We direct the Comptroller General to provide a briefing on preliminary observations to the Committees on Armed Services of the Senate and the House of Representatives not later than April 1, 2023. We also direct the Administrator for Nuclear Security to, upon receipt of the Comptroller's study, provide a briefing to the congressional defense committees on any statutory changes deemed necessary to improve the management and operation contract awarding process.

Funding for W80-4 life extension program

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 3119) that would increase by $5.0 million the amount authorized to be appropriated in section 3101 for the National Nuclear Security Administration for the W80-4 Life Extension Program.

The Senate contained no similar provision. The agreement does not include this provision.

Designation of National Nuclear Security Administration as technical nuclear forensics lead

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 3122) that would designate the National Nuclear Security Administration as the technical nuclear forensics lead.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The agreement does not include this provision.

We note that technical nuclear forensics is a critical mission for which the National Nuclear Security Administration (NNSA) plays an essential role. Under existing authorities, NNSA houses most of the U.S. Government's nuclear forensic analytical capabilities, including technology, expertise, and infrastructure that cover every phase of nuclear forensics: collection, analysis, evaluation, and attribution. NNSA remains best situated to adapt and update mission scope to ensure the forensics community is relevant to current threats, including countering nuclear terrorism and deterring near-peer adversaries. While nuclear forensics was once thought of as a primarily domestic responsibility, Russian nuclear threats related to its conflict in Ukraine, including the potential for a false-flag radiological or nuclear attack, highlight the importance of timely, credible attribution overseas in order to deter and, if necessary, respond to nuclear employment by near-peer adversaries.

Section 3231 of the John S. McCain National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2019 (Public Law 115-232) required the National Academies of Sciences, Engineering, and Medicine to conduct a study that examined U.S. Government nuclear forensics capabilities. The resulting report entitled "Restoring and Improving Nuclear Forensics to Support Attribution and Deterrence" was published in May 2021 and found that national technical nuclear forensics requires improved alignment across the U.S. Government. In particular, the report found that the Department of Homeland Security (DHS) had "effectively abdicated" its responsibilities for technical nuclear forensics by "prioritizing other missions" (p. 8), all the while other organizations, most notably NNSA, treat their nuclear forensics responsibilities as a matter of utmost importance (p. 14). It is no surprise, then, that the Office of Management and Budget submitted, in June 2021, an interagency coordinated and administration approved legislative proposal seeking to fully realign leadership for nuclear forensics from DHS to NNSA.

The technical nuclear forensics mission must remain a priority. We urge the U.S. Government to heed the recommendations of the National Academies and properly align policy, roles and responsibilities, and funding to support effective technical nuclear forensics.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The agreement does not include this provision.

We direct the Administrator for Nuclear Security, in coordination with the Secretary of Defense, to submit a plan to the congress-sional defense committees, not later than July 1, 2023, for restoring the unobligated, unencumbered, domestic uranium production, conversion, and enrichment capabilities of the United States by not later than 2035. Such plan should include, at a minimum:

(1) A proposal or proposals for restoring unobligated uranium production, conversion and enrichment capabilities, including production of high-enriched uranium to refurbish the nuclear weapons stockpile of the United States over a period of not more than 30 years; satisfy the annual requirements of the United States for naval reactor fuel, including projections for satisfying fuel requirements for all submarines developed using reactor designs and technology of the United States; and satisfy the annual requirements of the United States for defense nuclear power reactors;

(2) A proposal or proposals for improving the production capacity of unobligated low-enriched uranium needed to satisfy annual tritium production requirements for the nuclear weapons stockpile of the United States and associated research and development objectives; and

(3) Any other analysis and information as the Administrator or the Secretary consider appropriate.

We recognize that the contours of the plan for unobligated, unencumbered domestic uranium production outlined above may conflict with one or more of the objectives outlined by the Secretary of Energy's biennial plan for meeting national security requirements for unencumbered uranium through 2070, pursuant to section 2538c of title 50, United States Code. This direction does not alter the existing statutory requirement, but rather seeks to provide the congressional defense committees with alternatives that will improve their understanding of the implications and costs of accelerating efforts to reestablish domestic unobligated, unencumbered uranium production, conversion, and enrichment capabilities for the United States in the 2030s, and thus inform the range of future policy and resourcing options under consideration for responding to threats posed by multiple near-peer adversaries.
